Sirs,

I am an often frustrated but dedicated Windows' user. I have been since Windows 2.1. At times I hate it. But I DO NOT believe Microsoft should be prosecuted for anything. They have been successful because, while they are not perfect, NO ONE has anything better. I feel it is their competitors whining because they are incapable of building anything better that has caused this entire mess at the taxpayer's cost. It is utterly ridiculous. If the other programs were better... I would definitely use them. But alas they are not and yet they want Microsoft broken up to cripple the company. The impact on the PC world and business' everywhere would be catastrophic. Let's end this nonsense now and let Microsoft do what they do best... build programs for the struggling PC industry. And if anyone else can build a better "mouse-trap", we, the consumers will judge with out money. Thank you.
